2. Claims 5-20 are withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b) as being drawn to a nonelected invention, there being no allowable generic or linking claim. Election was made without traverse in the reply filed on October 6, 2008.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

3. Claims 1 and 4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by BRESSAN (EP 0303576).

Regarding claim 1, BRESSAN discloses a process for producing a thermoplastics plate comprising at least one smooth edge by:

mixing a thermoplastic in an extruder (Col.4, lines 27-34; Figure 1A); extruding the plastic using a slot die to give a flat plastics web (Col.4, lines 35-44; cooling and calibrating the plastics web on a calendar roll pair (Col.4, lines 45-51; Figure 1A);

drawing off the plastics web (Col.1, lines 4-15);

side edge of the plastics web is heated after calibration to at least a melting temperature (Col.2, lines 5-7) while the adjacent peripheral surface areas are maintained at a temperature below the softening point by cooling (Col.4, line 59 through Col.5, line 18).

Regarding claim 4, BRESSAN discloses longitudinally cutting the sides of the plastic web along the edges prior to heating the side edges (Col.2, lines 35-48).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claim 2 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over BRESSAN (EP 0303576) as applied to claim 1 above, and in further view of SALHOFER (3,429,959).

The teachings of BRESSAN are applied as described above for claim 1.

Regarding claim 2, BRESSAN does not explicitly disclose a hard PVC as the thermoplastic material. However, SALHOFER discloses a method of making foils of thermoplastic synthetic materials such as hard PVC by continuously extruding a wide web of said synthetic hard PVC (Abstract; Col.1, lines 40-44). Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to have extruded the hard PVC plastic web of SALHOFER using the method of BRESSAN to produce a thermoplastic plate since BRESSAN's method is used for production of plastic materials and would avoid deformation of the general flatness and straightness of the edges of the thermoplastic plate (BRESSAN-Col.1, lines 44-50).

6. Claim 3 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over BRESSAN (EP 0303576) as applied to claim 1 above, and in further view of PURVIS et al. (4,120,833).

The teachings of BRESSAN are applied as described above for claim 1.

Regarding claim 3, BRESSAN does not explicitly disclose an integral foam plate or board. However, PURVIS et al. discloses that polyvinyl chloride foam is an attractive thermoplastic material from which to form shaped articles as it has good physical properties, it is inert to a large number of chemicals and burns only with difficulty (Col.1, lines 15-18). Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to have replaced the thermoplastic material of BRESSAN with the polyvinyl chloride foam of PURVIS et al. for the predictable result of forming a thermoplastic plate having chemical inertness, good physical properties, and resistance to burning.
